

Dear Campus Housing Resident:

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic emergency, UCR Housing, Dining & Hospitality Services (HDHS) is making the following temporary revision to our campus housing Guest Policy (1.14).

Effective immediately, in accordance with “Stay-At-Home” orders, the prohibition of public “gatherings” of any size, and the social distancing mandates issued by Governor Newsom and the Riverside County Public Health Officer, current UCR campus housing guest policies 1.14.3, 1.14.4, and 1.14.6 are temporarily suspended and replaced as follows through June 19, 2020, or through the expiration of the COVID-19 related campus closure.

- Campus housing building access is officially restricted to contracted residents of their respective buildings.
- Entry to apartments and rooms shall be reserved only for the residents assigned to those specific spaces.
- Non-contracted persons are not permitted in campus housing buildings, apartments, or rooms at any time.
- Public and private “gatherings” of any size for non-essential activities are not permitted. (Examples of “gatherings” that are excepted include the convening of persons who reside in the same residence and essential activities such as shopping, laundry, public transportation, or the use of services at essential businesses such as dining or housing.)
- Residents should maintain a six (6) foot “social distance” from other persons at all times.
- Appropriate “face coverings” must be worn at all times in public spaces and during all interactions with other individuals in private spaces.

As a contracted Resident of UCR campus housing, you have agreed to comply with all rules and regulations that the University has established including, but not limited to, such rules as are incorporated in the most current edition of the Student Conduct Policies or as may be changed with notification.

.....

Please understand that this policy change has been implemented in order to ensure compliance with government-mandated actions and to help protect the health of all residents and staff of our campus housing community. We have every intention of reversing this policy revision as soon as current prohibitions are removed.

Thank you for your continued patience and understanding.
